Bio 2008

Robert Dicken

Lighting Designer

Robert has dedicated the past 14 years to developing long term relationships with clients through the mutual exchange of ideas that pique the visual senses by telling the projects story in light. His projects and clients range from individual artists to major corporate installations. His years of experience in the field have provided him with the keen understanding of having the approach of an artist but the discipline of an engineer.

Before starting his own company in 1999, Robert's work experience included venues and artists such as; MGM Grand Arena, NY NY Hotel/Motown Café, Sandi Patti, Michael Sweet, The Osmond Family Theater, Chinese Acrobats, The Grand Palace and Branson Showcase America, just to name a few.

Working nationally and Internationally Robert has created lighting designs for theater, dance, live concerts, museums and corporate Venues. He has collaborated with many well known artists. Working internationally he has created innovative and powerful designs at the National Palace in Barcelona Spain for the 2006 FedEx Presidents Club, and served as a consultant on the architectural lighting for several cathedrals throughout Hungary. Robert was hired as head lighting consultant and designer for the Masters of Florence exhibit which had over 200 artifacts from 60 different museums throughout Europe.

In the corporate world Robert has designed lighting and created video elements for many well known corporate entities such as; FedEx, Designer Skins, Valvoline, Six Flags and NWA. For the last 3 years Robert's company, "Digital4u2 Lighting Designs" has held the lighting design contract for Celebrity Cruise Lines.

Robert has extensive experience in computer aided drafting programs such as AutoCAD and Vector Works as well as being proficient with lighting specific visualization software; WYSIWIG and Vision. Robert has been factory certified by most all major lighting manufacturers, having been through programming, system turn on, and technical fixture training. This gives Robert the knowledge and understanding he needs to create a well designed project that is technically correct for implementation.

Robert's goal as a lighting designer is to provide services that ultimately exceed the clients' expectations by continually expanding his own creative ideas.
